

The Foundation of Mission

”Mission” is something that we like to talk about at Epiphany, and for good reason. Without mission, that is the process by which Christians purposely share their faith in Jesus with people who have not yet believed, Christianity would have probably never gotten beyond the boundaries of first-century Jerusalem.

But the reason we talk about mission is not simply, or even primarily, that we are interested in building our brand. The church is not a multi-level marketing organization with sign-up targets to achieve. Instead we do it because Jesus himself calls us to do it. This last Sunday we joined with our sister churches in the Anglican Church in North America in marking World Mission Sunday. As part of our worship we heard Jesus’ own call to mission from John 20, verse 22 . Jesus says to his disciples after his resurrection, “As the Father has sent me, even so I send you.”

In other words, Jesus’ own mission, the mission of reconciling people to God, of announcing the forgiveness of sins to those who believe, of heralding the coming of God’s kingdom, is now our mission. It’s been given to us by Jesus himself. We can’t say we are followers, disciples, of Jesus if we are unwilling to accept the gift of his mission.

Now that can feel daunting. It can feel like a call to do something we don’t feel very good at, or that we aren’t equipped for. Sharing our hope in Jesus in an effective way is difficult, and risking rejection is hard to do. What I have seen at Epiphany (and every other church I have served) is that we have a few folks that are naturally gifted for mission among us, and a lot of us who may secretly hope it isn’t actually our job.

Well, it is our job. But here is what I want to point out to all of us, myself included, who feel daunted by the call to take on Jesus’ mission as our own. It is this. Jesus doesn’t just give us his mission. He also gives us his peace. It’s actually how John 20, verse 22 begins. “Peace be with you” is what Jesus says first to his disciples. The mission follows Jesus’ peace.

This is my experience: When I look for Jesus' peace in myself and in those around me, mission follows close behind. This peace can look like a lot of things: Maybe it is an open door to a spiritual conversation at work or a connection with an unlikely person. Your mileage will vary of course. The first step of missionary discipleship is the same, though. It is Jesus' peace with us and in front of us.

So, missionaries of Jesus' at Epiphany, good news, be encouraged. We have not only been given a mission, we have also been given Jesus' peace. Look for that peace in action and the mission will follow.

God bless.,

Spring Adult Education Classes Begin March 3

This March and early April, Epiphany will be offering a slate of two adult education classes. Classes are held on Sunday mornings between 9:15 and 10:05. Classes this spring are as follows.

Finding God in Anglican Worship: Fr. Peter will be offering a course that will be exploring the biblical and traditional roots of Anglican worship. Attend this course if you have ever wondered why we worship the way we do, and/or what different parts of our worship service mean.

Jesus and the Old Testament Feasts: Elizabeth Hudgins will be exploring the connections between the Old Testament feasts and the life and ministry of Jesus. Attend this course to understand better the connections between Jesus and Jewish religious observances.

Feel free to join a class beginning March 3rd.

Character Building in the Teen Years

Every now and then in parenting, you accidentally stumble upon something that works for your children to get them into the Bible at home. Our decision was a simple one: read a chapter in the New Testament after dinner and talk about whatever stands out. Well naturally, the stories of Jesus were easier to listen to, but we are reading Romans and there is definitely some heady stuff. Then we got to chapter 5 and, all of a sudden Jonathan, our teenager felt like he could relate. This was the passage.

“We rejoice in our sufferings, knowing that suffering produces endurance, and endurance produces character, and character produces hope, and hope does not put us to shame.” Romans 5:3-4

I have always believed the Bible is relevant to our everyday lives, but I am especially interested to learn how our young people relate to the Scriptures. I have discovered that teens relate to the idea of suffering. Now, most of them are not being persecuted for their faith which would be the primary issue at the time Paul wrote the letter to Rome.

But we know that teens do suffer and are called upon to endure. So often they feel it is hard to hold on to hope because so much of life is out of their control. The social pressures from peers, their busy and distracted parents, hormonal changes and their new foray into the confusing world of adulthood is enough to demand some serious coping skills. And the thing that stood out to my teen at home was that, if a friend can endure the stress then they are building character. The word character gets talked about a lot for athletes especially. Having a character and willingness to endure a hard work-out will bring better performance, so the coach preaches. But not every student gets these kinds of pep talks. A teen may struggle for reasons to hold on to hope.

One of the new things for me is that my teen is looking for ways to be encouraging to his struggling peers. The other bit of good news is that he would want to turn to the Bible to deliver that encouragement, even if this specific passage does not mention Jesus. Finally, if one of my son's friends holds on to the hope of a transformed character, then they could see and experience victory in their endurance and character building. Altogether, that equals up to a lot of wins in my mind!

Time to Paint the Ceiling

We have had a leak in the sanctuary for a number of months now, and we would like to touch up the ceiling panels before Easter. This job will involve being up on ladders using spray-paint specifically designed to retouch ceiling tiles. If you would be interested in joining the team to take this project on during March, please contact Fr. Peter (pfrank@epiphanyanglican.net).

Church of the Epiphany Anglican Missions Committee

COE = Church of Epiphany, MP = Ministry Partners, MC = Missions Committee

Introduction

The task of the Missions Committee has global and eternal implications. The MC is committed to Church of Epiphany's active participation in fulfilling the Great Commission. It considers the sending and support of Ministry Partners to be one of the primary roles of the church.

A written statement of the MC's purpose, policies and procedures will aid the committee's effectiveness and provide guidance in decision making. An adopted written policy minimizes emotional decisions or decisions based on personalities.

Mission Committee Essentials

Great Commission: Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you always, to the end of the age. Matt. 28:19-21.

COE Mission Statement: Encountering God through beautiful worship and believing prayer. Building a multi-generational congregation that loves children and families. Equipping every member to publicly proclaim the Good News of Jesus Christ.

A. Mission Committee Goals

1. Select and support MPs according to MC's selection criteria.
2. Deepen and consolidate COE's commitment to current MPs, especially those who have strong connection with COE.
3. Assist in integrating the Great Commission into the life of COE.

B. Mission Committee Duties

1. Communication within COE
  - a. Encourage intercessory prayer for world missions in general and for COE's own MPs.

- b. Keep world missions and MP before COE through the Sunday church bulletin, a bulletin board, and other COE media.
  2. Develop policies and related procedures to clarify MP's accountability to MC, including:
    - a. Frequency of prayer/update communications.
    - b. Length of time for which COE commits support.
    - c. Provide relevant policies to every MP annually.
  3. Review MP communications, noting requests for both financial and prayer assistance and, when appropriate, share these needs with the congregation.
  4. Coordinate with Rector to schedule MP speakers and/or exhibits.
  5. Develop ways to encourage and care for MPs in their calling and ministry efforts.
  6. Provide inspiration and motivation for missions and for fulfilling the Great Commission.

C. Required Attributes for Mission Partners

1. Does the MP spread the Gospel by actively fulfilling the Great Commission?
  - a. Is the mission tangible? How will success be apparent? What will be visibly or measurably different as the mission succeeds? How will COE know that this tangible impact has happened?
  - b. Is the proposed or current mission effort focused and does it have clear expected results?
2. Does the MP's mission align with some part of the Great Commission?
  - a. Make disciples?
  - b. Make new believers?
  - c. Make new, stronger or more committed followers of all that Jesus has taught?
  - d. Encourage believers to know that Jesus and the Holy Spirit always accompany them?
3. Does the MP have at least one sponsoring person who is a COE member?
4. Is the proposed MP approved by and affiliated with a reputable mission organization?
5. Are the MP and mission organization compatible with COE's beliefs and values as an Anglican church and as in the Nicene Creed?
6. Will the MP provide regular communication with COE?
  - a. Send letter or other correspondence on a regular schedule.
  - b. Visit COE if feasible or contact a MC member and/or sponsor while on furlough.
  - c. Inform COE of any changes in ministry goals or area of ministry.
7. MC members who are also MPs can serve on the committee as a full participant at the chair's discretion with the chair to determine extent of participation in areas of potential conflicts of interest.

D. Mission Support Criteria Considerations

1. Special consideration will be given for those sent from COE.
2. Criteria to select MP may be prioritized according to any current COE priorities, such as:
  - a. A particular country

- b. A people group
  - c. Type of ministry
  - d. Evangelistic initiative
  - e. Sister church (e.g. locally or internationally)
  - f. Particular age bracket
3. Allow for flexibility, leaving room for the Lord to use COE to meet special Great Commission opportunities that may arise and to adjust to changing world conditions.

Accountability Considerations

1. "Appropriate accountability should be focused around achievable activity goals while at the same time defining prayer requests asking God to do what only He can accomplish. Missionaries cannot be held responsible for fruit that is borne only by the moving of the Holy Spirit, but they should be accountable to do what best prepares the soil."<sup>1</sup>
2. It is appropriate for supporting churches to ask for regular reports, but the primary evaluation and decision-making need to center in the sending body. MP accountability is to communicate with COE. It is not accountability for evaluation purposes, which is the job of the sending organization.
